

International Education at our Universities

Internationalism is on a continuous rise. Nowhere is this more evident than in our Indiana universities. This is an exciting trend as we strive to make Indianapolis a more global and inclusive community that is connected to the world. We have prepared this summary which highlights some of the interesting statistics. All illustrations have included the source reference.

A Word from Our Universities

Charles Bantz
Chancellor , IUPUI

"IUPUI is deeply committed to internationalism. We have many long-term global relationships - each year we welcome thousands of international students and host hundreds of visiting scholars. Hundreds of our students study abroad and, of course, many of our faculty, staff, and leaders have international backgrounds."

Michael McRobbie
President, Indiana University

"Drawing on our long and rich tradition of international engagement, we must remember that education and research—IU's two fundamental missions—are the seeds for success in a world growing increasingly flat and seamless. Global literacy and collaboration have never been more important than they are now."

Mitch Daniels
President, Purdue University

"Successful implementation [of our strategic plan] would stamp Purdue as a global leader in areas that we believe fit our historic land-grant mission, and matter most to the society of today....We are already well-embarked on radically increasing the percentage of Boilermakers whose Purdue careers include at least one meaningful international study experience."
